Sassnitz Harbor

1. [ ] there were only four old wooden naval craft, described 50X1-HUM by source as minesweepers, and a few fishing boats in Sassnitz Harbor. One of the fishing vessels had just arrived from Dessau, where it had been built.
2. The intention to assemble all newly-built fishing craft at Sassnitz has been abandoned. The vessels are now taken to Stralsund. The head of the Volkseigenewerft at Stralsund is one Kleewitz, formerly chief engineer of the small Greifenhagen/Oder shipyard.
3. Various Soviet naval units are now stationed at Lauterbach/Rügen on the Rügischer Bodden; part of the naval garrison of Sassnitz has been transferred there.
4. Sassnitz breakwater has not yet been repaired. A heavy swell with easterly winds blowing makes the harbor unsafe.
5. Off the Hela Peninsula, the Poles and Soviets have extended the limit to eight nautical miles, in order to keep other nationalities away from the shallow fishing grounds.

Rostock Harbor

50X1-HUM

6. [ ] there have been no arrivals or departures in Rostock Harbor.
7. The engine overhaul of minesweepers [ ] is expected to be completed [ ] Minesweepers [ ] are still 50X1-HUM in the harbor. 50X1-HUM
8. Nothing has been done to the destroyers [ ] Tests on the Provorni have shown that her boiler system (Kesselreglung) is out of order. No repairs have been made to date.
